

90th Carolinas Amateur Championship
Country Club of North Carolina,
Pinehurst, NC
July 7-11, 2004
Champion: Banks Wood
Charlotte, NC

Banks Wood took advantage of his home-course knowledge to beat John Kelley in the final match, 5 and 3. But, perhaps more important is his preference for match play. “In match play, I have to beat only five out of the 32 people who advance. If I make a double bogey, I lose only one hole,” said the rising senior, 21, at NC State. Against Kelley, 31, a real estate developer and 1995 graduate of Wake Forest, Wood was three up after nine, three up after 18 and five up after 27 holes. He never trailed in the match and was never less than two up after the sixth hole. Only a series of three-putt greens prevented Wood from closing out the match sooner. The shot to be remembered was Kelley’s wedge shot that holed, on the fly, for par. Not good enough. Wood had a birdie putt that was conceded for the victory.

Above left: Banks Wood struggled with a few three-putts during the final match but hung-on to claim the title with a 5 and 3 victory over John Kelley. Above right: The Country Club of North Carolina (CCNC) is a classic design. Pictured here is the fourteenth hole where Wood closed out his final match.

Below left: Runner-up John Kelley gives a high-five to champion Banks Wood on the final hole. Below right: The approach shot to the 13th par-three green. CCNC has hosted many CGA championships throughout the years which include the NC Amateur, the Carolinas-Virginias Junior Boys Team Matches and the Carolinas-Virginias Team Matches.
