

9th Island Four-Ball
Casa De Campo,
Dominican Republic
February 23-25, 2005
Champions: Steve Harwell,
Mooresville, NC and John Hurt,
Davidson, NC

Steve Harwell of Mooresville, NC and John Hurt of Davidson, NC played three rounds of unbelievable golf at Casa de Campo resort in La Romana, Dominican Republic to defend their title at the 9th Island Four-Ball Championship. The three championship rounds were contested over Casa de Campo's three courses: Teeth of the Dog course (ranked #34 in the world by Golf Digest), the Links course and the new Dye Fore course at Altos de Chavon. All three courses were designed by Pete Dye. Harwell and Hurt, who are members at River Run Country Club in Davidson, NC, opened the championship with a seven-under par 65 on the very windy Dye Fore course which catapulted them above the field with a 7-shot lead. Harwell and Hurt then made an even bigger move during round three on the often-underrated Links course where Harwell made seven of the teams nine birdies. "This is a great event and a great vacation to get away from the cold Carolinas weather. The resort is beautiful and the courses are great." Harwell stated during his acceptance speech. "We will definately be back next year again to defend our title." Photo from left: Steve Harwell, Jack Nance and John Hurt.
